

Progress Or Reaction The Issue, Says Cox; Compares His Record With Senator Harding's

PERFORMANCE, NOT WORDS, THE TEST, SAYS
GOVERNOR

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 17.—Senator Harding, the Republican presidential candidate, today was again attacked as a "reactionary" by Governor Cox, his Democratic opponent.

In addressing the Ohio Democratic convention, opening the local Democracy's campaign and laying down his state leadership, Governor Cox reviewed the contest he had in 1912 when he supported Senator Harding over the new Ohio constitution.

"It has in considerable degree," said Governor Cox, "made the basis upon which the presidential contest is being fought this year, for the reason that the issue now, as in the past, is between progress and reaction. More than that the candidates of the two parties are taken from our state, and both candidates have been participants in the public affairs of this community since 1912. In consequence of this the record in Ohio bears direct relation to the national campaign, as the test, not words."

Governor Cox cited a statement by Senator Harding, after adoption of what "socialism and revolution." He also recited that a free paper, funded after Senator Harding's and published by him, fought the adoption of the constitution.

Harding Aligned With Opposition
"At every bend of the road," said Governor Cox, "we found him aligned with the opposition." The opponents, Governor Cox said, also were aided by "gold lobbyists" and moneyed interests.

To his credit, the governor continued, "it must be stated that he believed that he was right."

He recited the spirit of the whole movement. It was an orderly process of evolution. He designated it as "Socialism."

The point however," Governor Cox declared, "is that he still believes in reaction and I still believe in progress. Governor Cox, I am sure, has resulted from the new constitution, such as the actuary's compensation law, reduction of tax rates, protection of the businesses and prison reform.

Progress Surrounded By Misgivings
In every contest between progress and reaction, Governor Cox continued, whether state, national or international, men will find the elements to match the same. The former step is always surrounded by articulated objections, since in some instances, a minimally the evidence of selfish aims of political design.

"It required governmental intervention to ally honest within this state. The reactionary regarded it as revolution."

Turning from state to international affairs, and referring apparently to the basis of voting, Governor Cox said that "the progressive now would like an end to international anarchy. He would take from and potentiate the ability to declare war over night. He would merge governmental entities in a righteous association. He answers caption objection with an expressed confidence in humanity. He would stop the flow of resources to the building of armaments. He regards the need of selfishness, personal, national or international. He states that government should be as human as humanity itself and that the ideal scheme of things will work only by our pressing forward and to the backward."

Beg Allies To Save Poland

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Thousands of the citizens of Pozen have joined in a great demonstration, beginning the entente nations to save Poland, says a dispatch from that city to the London Times. This measure, which was voted today, makes no reference to the establishment of a new Polish government in Pozen, rumors of which have been current here during the last couple of days.

POLES BREAK REDS' HOLD ON THE GATES OF WARSAW

WARSAW, August 17.—(1 a. m.)—(By the Associated Press)—The Russian pressure upon Warsaw has been relieved, according to the official Polish communiqué, just issued. The statement reported that General Piluski directed the counter-strike that affected this relief.

WARSAW, August 16.—(8 p. m.)—(By the Associated Press)—The Russian Soviet hold upon the gates of Warsaw has been broken, according to allied officers here.

The Polish counter-offensive is declared to be in full sway at various points with the Soviet forces falling back in confusion.

PARIS, August 17.—Several successful counter attacks have been launched by the Poles against the Russian Bolshevik armies which are hammering at the gates of Warsaw. In the neighborhood of Cholm, on the southern sector of the Warsaw front, Russian Soviet forces which had crossed the Bug river, have been hurled back across that stream, while in the region of Modlin, northwest of the Polish capital, the Poles have begun a counter offensive, directing their attack in the direction of Mlawa.

Military critics here pointed out late last night that the situation was better than it had been for some time and laid special stress upon the attack against the Bolsheviks near Cholm. They also said there were indications that the Polish command had decided to make necessary sacrifices on the southern front in eastern Galicia.

Suffrage Fight On In North Carolina

RALEIGH, N. C., August 17.—In addition to the resolution providing for ratification of the federal suffrage amendment which was expected to come up for consideration in the Senate during the day, the North Carolina legislature today had before it a resolution to reject the amendment. The proposal to reject was introduced in the house last night by Representative Grier, Democrat. It was referred to a committee.

Pro and anti-suffragists were pitted for a lively tilt over suffrage in the state where leaders had agreed to begin debate.

Party leaders said there was some possibility of a vote today in the senate on the ratification resolution.

Suffragists have issued a statement to the effect that Governor Cox, Democratic presidential candidate, wired them a report that he had sent a personal representative here to aid in defeating ratification.

"Cox's First Effort Outside His Own State Characteristic Of Whole Campaign—Was Uphill,"

—SAYS DAVID LAWRENCE

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright by Times Pub. Co.)

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 16.—

Governor Cox's first effort outside his own state was perhaps characteristic of his whole campaign—it was up hill. The first audience he could confront in all likelihood was the Democratic state convention of West Virginia, he said.

The partisans assembled liked the speech and the speaker cheered him and came away cheered over their aggressive leader. The sound audience, gathered out of doors at night on the grassy slope that forms sort of natural bleachers at the river front was made up of Republicans as well as

Typical Jimmy Cox Speech.

It was an average crowd. Governor Cox's role carried well. He met close to his audience and talked a language they fully understood. It was a triple Jimmie Cox speech which meant that he told the crowd they could continue to all like Jimmy if he were elected president and that they could forget about the title of president, that he wasn't fighting Harding personally, whom he respected and admired, but fighting his record in public life and the party that nominated him at Chicago and that performance counted, namely nine thousand times more than promises.

WIFE GAINS 18 POUNDS
SAYS LYNCHBURG MAN

I Don't Believe Any One Could Be In Better Health Than She Is Since Taking Tanlac," He Declares.

"My wife had fallen off until she weighed only one hundred pounds when she started taking Tanlac but now she weighs one hundred eighteen pounds and I don't believe anybody is in better health than she is."

The above statement was made recently by H. E. Hawkins of 206 Wethersfield street, Lynchburg, Va. Mr. Hawkins is a well known railroad man, having been freight conductor for the last nineteen years on the Norfolk and Western railroad running between Lynchburg and Durham.

"This was eight months ago," he continued, "that Tanlac put an end to my wife's troubles and to this day she has been in the very best of health."

"For about three years she had been suffering from a bad case of indigestion and during that time other troubles had developed and pulled her down until she was almost a nervous and physical wreck."

"She had to give up eating the things she liked best and finally had to live entirely on milk and toast. Gas would form on her stomach and press up into her chest and cause awful aching spells and she complained of terrible pains and cramps in her stomach. Nearly every day she had a splitting headache and I have seen her get so dizzy and faint I thought she would fall before I could get to her."

"She had nervous spells that would nearly drive her into hysterics and she slept very poorly."

"We had tried everything we could hear of but a little temporary relief was all we could get and it was beginning to look like her eye was hopeless. But finally I got her a bottle of Tanlac and that was about the best thing I ever did in my life. She began to get better right away and by the time she had finished her fifth bottle her troubles were all gone and from that day to this she has been in as good health as she ever was in her life."

"She eats anything she wants. Sleeps fine and in fact is never troubled in any way whatever. I am more than glad to give this statement, for my wife and I have been thinking for some time of writing the Tanlac people and telling them what this medicine has done for her."

Tanlac is sold in Portsmouth by the Fisher and Stretch pharmacy and the leading druggists in every town.

The Tire that goes a long way to make friends

The fact that one of the first successful cord tires was a General Tire—undoubtedly has had something to do with the present position that the General holds in the tire world—but the main reason is that every General Tire—Cord or Fabric—Truck or Passenger Type—for small cars or large—has gone a longer way to make friends than its price promised.

The General Tire is ready to go a long way to make friends with you.

Dear Dolly—I am in love with my cousin and he wants to marry me but my parents think it would be disgrace for us to get married. What do you think about it?

WORRIED GIRL

Marriage between first cousins is forbidden in Ohio and many other states. It is not a question of disgrace, but your judgment would be a young married man who is a stranger in the city. His wife is very cousins has no bad effect but a bad family and I would like to invite them times out of ten the children of such a union are not normal. Your parents cannot be blamed for their objection.

up to my house and introduce them to my circle of friends but I am afraid she would get jealous and think I was interested in her husband, but I am not. I just feel sorry for her because she does not know many people here. What would you advise?

FRIENDLY GIRL

Your plan is all right. Your wife will be grateful to you for the invitation unless she is a peculiar sort of woman. There is a chance of course that she might be jealous since you see her husband quite often. Do not consider such a possibility, however.

Dear Dolly—I am a girl of nineteen and have been going with a nice young man for some time but he has never met my parents. I nearly always meet him down town when we go anywhere and I am loath to come in when we get home. I would not mind him meeting them if I could get them to doll up of evenings, but father sits around in his shirt sleeves and mother in her house dress and I am afraid they would not make a very good impression on my lover as he is always so neat and clean. What would you do about it?

WORKING GIRL

By all means let him come to the house and meet your parents. He will not feel the confusion as much as you do. Besides he will look for the desirable qualities in your parents and will not see your mother's plain dress and your father's shirt sleeves. Their real worth will be felt more than their careless habits. I do not approve of girls meeting young men away from home. If they expect to go somewhere from work that is different, as to go home to meet would be unreasonable.

Dear Dolly—Please advise me as I am in trouble. I have been machine riding several times with a friend of mine. I have known him most all my life, and I like him. The other evening I was about to meet him and he crossed the street. I think on purpose, to keep from meeting me, and now I shall him to keep him from seeing me. Should I do so?

A LOVER

I wouldn't shun him. If he deliberately snubbed me I would walk right past him and never see him. There is a chance that he might have been thinking about something else and did not see you.

Miss Dolly Wise—What will take holes off your arms? What will make your skin white and what will make your hair curly?

BABY VAMP

They do say that a person with lots of hair on their arms will be rich some day; so you had better let them alone until your skin comes over. Let your skin alone too, and it will bleach out in no time. If you will eat bread crusts they will make your hair curly. However, all curlers or a curling iron will do it quicker.

Dearest Dolly—I am coming to you in desperation. I am a married

For Dolly's sake I must uprise my best.

What must I do to get back to normal weight? I feel well, better than I have in years, but surely I won't be compelled to be fleshly to feel well. I eat lots and sleep little. Remember, Dolly, remember, so law you by down will be too strenuous for me to follow in the letter. The fast straw came when my husband remarked about my gainning. For Dolly's sake I must uprise my best.

BILLY WHISKERS
by FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

Of course you know how interesting a fight is, so pretty soon a man driving a big dray stopped to watch them; the boys crowded round in a big ring; then came from the sidewalks and joined the crowd; a carriage had to stop just behind the dray, then another; a wagon coming from the other direction could not get through, and presently the street was filled from sidewalk to sidewalk, the whole length of the block, with a big crowd of people and a jam of vehicles of all kinds. Policemen tried to push their way through the crowd and tried to get the blocks loosened and moving on but their time was wasted.

In the meantime Billy was running around and around where he stood, always facing the dog, which now began to dart in with a snap of his teeth and dart away again trying to get a hold on Billy. The goat was too quick, however, and dodged every time the dog made a snap. He was waiting for his chance and at last it came. The dog, in jumping away from one of his snaps, turned his body for a moment sideways to the goat and in that moment Billy gathered himself up and made a spring, hitting the dog square in the side and sending him over against the crowd. Billy followed like a little white streak of lightning and, before the dog could get on his feet, had butted him again.

Such a howling and yelling as there was around that side of the crowd; Billy and the dog were now among them and they could not scatter much for there were too many people packed solidly behind them. The dog yelped as Billy butted him and began to run around the circle with Billy after him. After they had made two or three

SEEM HAPPIER THAN THOSE WHO RIDE FIRST-CLASS

Thursday—Still a beautiful, quiet sea, and all hands on board well and happy. Last night Arline and I watched the steerage passengers during on their deck and it was lots of fun. They are so simple, so easily pleased. One young fellow had an accordion and played it for the crowd, and how did it trip it! They just love to whirl about, and most of them dance gracefully.

The music sounded so pretty on the water, and the night was so warm and perfect. There was a moon and it perfectly danced with the revellers, and wagons, under horses and between wheels, until at last he was free from the crowd.

Notably at the outer edge noticed him getting away because they did not know what the excitement was and they were all pressing forward to see. Just as he left, somebody who did not understand what else could make such excitement cried, "Fire!" The cry was taken up, and that made still more confusion. People began pouring into that deck from every direction. More wagons and carriages came. Some one had turned in a fire alarm, and presently here came the fire engines from three or four directions at once, clanging and scattering their way to this crowded block. The city of Derry had never known so much excitement.

But Billy trotted contentedly on, hiding all the noise and hubbub very nicely, but not knowing that he was the cause of it all. Blocks away he could hear their shouting, but he did not care to go back there, for all that. He was finding a great many things to interest him in the ship windows, which were all brilliantly lighted. Before one of these low windows he suddenly stopped. There, just inside the ship window, was a big, brown goat. Billy did not know it, but this was a wooden goat, poised on its hind feet and ready to make a spring to butt somebody.

WHO'S WHO
In The Days News

GEN. BARON WRANGEL

The recognition by France of the de facto government of General Baron Wrangel in South Russia has not served to add to the friendliness of Franco-British relations. Lloyd George has not favored the recognition of Wrangel, who has yet shown little strength in his operations against the Bolsheviks.

Moreover, the League government recently informed the allies that they must cause Wrangel's surrender to the Reds as a preliminary to any general peace conference.

Wrangel is said to have a considerable force under his command, and with such aid as France is expected to give him in the way of military supplies, is expected to make headway.

Although a former officer of the czar, he intends to establish a democratic form of government.

At the time the European war broke out Wrangel was colonel of the cavalry troop known as the Chevalier Garde, the personal bodyguard of Czar Nicholas. Although this troop had seen service in the Russo-Japanese war, it was regarded more or less as an ornament.

When the Russians launched their initial drive against the Germans through East Prussia, however, the "ornament" suddenly made one of the most dashing and romantic cavalry charges of the war. Failing apparently certain death, it hurtled itself against a strong German artillery position and by superhuman courage gained its objective, capturing five German batteries, although in doing so half of its personnel was wiped out.

Severely wounded, Wrangel was promoted on the field for gallantry, and then twice promoted thereafter.

Prolonging Human Life.

The life of the fruit fly, by means of a reduction in the temperature from 30 to 10 degrees centigrade, was prolonged 900 per cent. Loeb figured that if by any means it should be possible to lower the temperature of the human body to 7.5 degrees centigrade, human life could be extended to 12,000 years. This was, of course, not a prediction, but simply a logical principle derived from these experiments. He quite clearly states that the human organism cannot take on the temperature of the surrounding air, as does the fruit fly; and even if it could, life at that low temperature would be wholly undesirable.—Eugene Lyman Fisk in the Yale Review.

New-York - Day-By-Day

BY G. O. McDITTRIC

NEW YORK, August 17.—The police archives down town hold records of a series of most unusual crimes that have taken place this summer. The details of the majority of them are unprintable. The district where the crimes took place centers about Lincoln Square which is at Broadway and Sixty-Sixth street.

Several streets intersect there, where are arcades, tenement houses, cheap studios and a number of dance halls were promiscuous gatherings are held. Night life there is a throw back to the old days on the East Side when the music halls rang with songs and ribald laughter all the night.

It is said that the district is infested with "snow rimers," the term used for cocaine sellers. One dance hall in the neighborhood is a meeting place for drug addicts. "Hostesses" act as procurers and have books filled with the addresses of young girls "on call."

Two opium parlors, camouflaged as late dressing establishments, are said to be running wide open. All the saloons in the district have gone out of business and while there are plenty of bootleggers along the curb the demand is for drugs.

Three of the girl victims—mothered by the white hot lights of Broadway—are now in hospitals. They came from the smaller cities seeking a career and after a dreary round of the agencies flung themselves into the salaried life with reckless abandon.

Since steamship travel has been ruined by all classes of criminal degenerates fleeing Europe where they are now, have settled in New York. The police are gradually finding them out.

A war has been started on the "corner boys" who annoy women and are arrested by the score.

The automobile thirts, men to motor cars who ride slowly up and down Fifth Avenue and Broadway inviting women to drive with them, are also being arrested by the score.

Down at Wannamaker's store a morning concert is held daily. After singing a sentimental song of the heart, the other day the young singer went to her locker to get her hat. Tucked under the door was an envelope. Inside was a fifty dollar bill and an unsigned note which read: "Your song touched the heart of a lonely stranger passing through. Please accept this as a gift.

French Direct Defense

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Warsaw is still held by the Poles, so far as official reports received here disclose the situation. The latest Soviet Russian communists does not claim the city is gained, while the Polish official statement of Monday represented the leaders of the Polish capital making successful the resistance.

Reports of the city's fall announced officially on Sunday by the Polish staff at Vilna, where the news was celebrated, according to a Rovensko report to the London Times, are not confirmed from any source and are evidently discredited by the Times, which does not print them. All special are dated later than Sunday—convinced in the statement that Warsaw was still held by the Poles, who, according to some of these reports, were fighting so stiffly and successfully that Germany to the city was driven using Russian attacks, however, were becoming constantly removed, and the government was about to be especially successful in and around Radzymin, which had been held hands five times and was reported held by the Poles.

The influence of French assistance in the defense of Warsaw is mentioned in some reports, and it is said that the approach of additional French help may lead a hopeful aspect to the Polish resistance. This paper, however, is not universally accepted, and in some quarters the

HARDING PROMISES COMPLETE CHANGE IN FOREIGN POLICY

MARION, O., Aug. 17.—A complete change in the foreign policy of the United States was promised today by Senator Warren G. Harding, the Republican nominee, if his party is successful in the November election.

"I think the Republican party will expect at the hands of a Republican administration a very sweeping change in our foreign policy," said Senator Harding. The candidate said that the present policy pursued by the Wilson administration of attempting to force America's joining the League of Nations, "will be discontinued if we are victors at the polls."

Although Senator Harding stated in his formal speech of acceptance that he did not approve of the United States joining the league, his expressions today were broader, and he declared that if he is elected, he will insist upon a policy of American neutrality, with a careful avoidance of any foreign entanglements. This would not necessarily mean remaining aloof from the rest of the world, it is said, or of our refusing to aid in case of national disaster or suffering elsewhere.

"We are concerned with civilization, with the peace of the world, and with our duty toward relieving the distress and suffering of humanity, but we can do this to the relief of specific cases without involving ourselves," Senator Harding said.

The nominee refused to discuss the possibility of America becoming involved if the recently announced plan of the Bolsheviks to subdue eastern Europe were successful.

Despite my membership on the Senate foreign relations committee, I think the president and secretary of state should be the ones to speak on the foreign situation today," he said.

The announcement of an important change in the re-elect's from porch campaign is expected tomorrow when Republican Chairman Will Hays, Senators Nease of Indiana, and McCormick of Illinois, Alben Barkley in charge of Republican publicity, and Henry C. Wallace of D. C. Morris, will arrive in

Shortstop Of Cleveland Team Was Hit By Ball Thrown By Pitcher Mays

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Raymond Chapman, shortstop on the Cleveland American baseball team, who was hit on the head by a ball thrown by Pitcher Carl Mays in yesterday's game with the New York Americans, died in the St. Lawrence hospital at 1:50 o'clock this morning. He never regained consciousness after an operation, which was hurriedly decided on shortly after midnight, when a portion of his fractured skull was removed by surgeons who hoped against hope that he might recover.

Shortly before it was decided to operate, Manager Tris Speaker, already deeply apprehensive of his condition, telephoned news of the accident to Chapman's wife in Cleveland, who immediately started for New York.

News of his death cast gloom over the members of both teams, and the baseball world in general, and it was considered quite probable, early today, that today's game would be called off. Carl Mays was overcome with grief when the news was told him.

The accident occurred at the outset of the fifth inning. Chapman was the first batter up and was hit by the first ball pitched. So terrific was the blow that the report of the impact caused spectators to think the ball had struck his hat. Mays, who pitched the ball, acting under this impression, fielded the ball that rebounded half way to the pitcher's box and threw it in first base in order to retire Chapman.

Then it was noticed that Chapman had collapsed at the home plate. He was lifted to his feet by other players, then he stood dazed for a moment, staggered and crumpled up at their feet. Physicians were immediately called from the grand stand and the administered first aid, still not knowing that he had suffered a fractured skull. Two players, with Chapman's arms about their shoulders, started to walk him off the field. He appeared to walk at first almost unaided, but a few moments later his legs became limp and he had to be carried bodily to an ambulance.

Manager Tris Speaker, and Business Manager Wallace McNichols of Cleveland, went to the hospital immediately after the game and were at the induction when the operation was performed. The surgeons made an incision three and one-half inches long through the base of the skull on the left side. They discovered a rupture of the lateral sinus and a quantity of clotted blood. A small piece of the skull was removed.

The physicians at first entertained a faint hope that the ball player would recover, but he failed to rally.

Mays, in discussing the accident said that the ball he threw was a "sinker"—one that breaks sharply on one side, due usually to a rough spot on the cover. He added for another ball before pitching to Speaker, who followed Chapman at the plate, and the ball which fatally injured the shortstop was thrown out of the curve.

In baseball circles, it was believed that Chapman's death would seriously hamper Cleveland's chance of capturing the American league pennant. He was a veteran and one of the mainstays of the team.

Chapman was regarded as one of the best fielders in the country and had worn a Cleveland uniform for seven or eight years. He was a warm personal friend of Scotty Bill Doyle of this city, who was deeply grieved to learn of the regrettable tragedy.

Chapman was a favorite in Cleveland, where the fans received the terrible news with profound regret. Chapman's latest batting average was .295 and he was one of the mainstays of the Indians smooth machinery.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 17.—Raymond Chapman was born in McHenry, Ky., January 15, 1891. He had been a member of the Cleveland American league team since August 26, 1912, and was considered one of the best shortstops and most popular player in the game.

Chapman played his first professional baseball in 1909 with Mount Vernon, Ill. In 1910 he went to Springfield, Ill., and from there to Dayton, O., in the Tele-Teet League.

Cleveland first obtained Chapman from Dayton in 1911, and sold him to Toledo in the American Association on option. He was recalled to Cleveland in 1912 and had played in more than 1,600 games in an Indian uniform.

Chapman was one of the fastest men in baseball. On September 27, 1917, Tim Murnane at Boston, he won a torturing race for the fastest time in circling the bases, doing it in fourteen seconds.

In 1917 he broke all-major league career hit records with a total of 67, and also led the American league in sacrifices in the following two years.

He was married last year to Callie Dally of Cleveland, daughter of M. R. Dally, president of the East Ohio Gas company.

Gain On Nearest Rivals

The Reds gained on the Brooklyn team, which was trimming the Cubs. If the Moran Men can top today's game they will be in good shape to gain ground in their home series.

Reds On Batting Rampage

Expecting a run in 15 innings was counted was that Ray Fisher pitched too much for the struggling Reds, so they came back to life Monday and licked the Cubbies all over Chicago. The score was 9 to 1.

And the refreshing feature of the game is a victory today.

Will Visit Eller's Town

Today is the Reds' last game in Chicago. Eller's Thursday the team will come this season. Wednesday the open on the home for the Brooklyn game. Four games will be played, one of them postponed on the previous game in Detroit, Ill., the home of the Robins to the Indians.

DAMON-PYTHIAS COMBINATION REVIVED; CARDINALS SHOULD BENEFIT AS RESULT

Left: McCarthy and Fedy. The sale of McCarthy by the Giants to the Cardinals' while Fedy was traded to the Red Sox immediately, those two being Leo McCarthy and Ferdinand Shumfield Schopp, Cardinal pitcher. McCarthy and Schopp's catcher when Fedy was with the Giants and the two great friends. The presence of his favorite backstop behind the plate made Schopp pitching more effective than ever, and he became quite mighty good.

THE STEERAGE PASSENGERS, for the Arline says that older women seem HAPPIER THAN THOSE WHO RIDE FIRST-CLASS.

Thursday still a beautiful, quiet sea and all hands on board well and happy. Last night Arline and I watched the steerage passengers dancing on their deck and it was lots of fun. They are so simple, so easily pleased. One young fellow had an accordion and played it for the crowd, and how they did trip it! They just love it. It is way out in Indiana or somewhere like that, by now. Misses are love it, and most of them dance gracefully.

The music sounded so pretty on the water, and the night was so warm and every day since we left, and will make perfect. There was a moon and it looks like it will be so as soon as we land.

Wednesday night there is a grand gathering on the sidewalk, and wagons, under horses and between wheels, until at last he was free from the crowd; a carriage had to get past him, then another wagon coming from the other direction could not get through, and possibly the street was filled from sidewalk to sidewalk, the whole length of the block, with a big crowd of people and jags of vehicles of all kinds.

Arline could not understand what else could make such a wait, and tried to push their way through the crowd and tried to get to the package train and moving on but time was wasted.

The meantime Billy was turning around and around where he stood, always facing the dog with now leg on every direction. More wagons and carriages came. Some one had turned on a fire alarm, and presently fire came the fire engines from three or four directions at once, climbing over the fire and weather. Several bleeding men have been brought this way to this crowded block. The city of Bern had never known so much excitement.

Billy barked contentedly, walking all the miles and barking very much, but not knowing that he was the cause of it. Bells may he could hear their shouting, but he did not care to go back there, for all that.

He was finding a great many things to interest him in the shop windows, which were all brilliantly lighted. Before one of these shop windows he suddenly stopped. There, just inside the shop window, was a big, brown goat. Billy did not know it, but this was a wooden goat, painted on his hind feet and ready to make a spring to butt somebody.

More about the wooden goat to-morrow.

WHO'S WHO
In The Days News

GEN. BARON WRÅNGEL

The recognition by France of the facto government of General Baron Wrangler in South Russia has not served to add to the friendliness of Franco-British relations.

Lloyd George has not favored the recognition of Wrangler, who has shown little strength in his operations against the Bolsheviks.

He has shown little strength in his operations against the Bolsheviks.

Moreover, the League government recently informed the allies that they must cause Wrangler's surrender to the Reds as a preliminary to any general peace conference.

Wrangler is said to have a considerable force under his command, and with such aid as France is expected to give him in the way of military supplies, is expected to make headway.

Although a former officer of the czars, he intends to establish a democratic form of government.

At the time the European war broke out Wrangler was colonel of the cavalry troop known as the Chevalier Guard, the personal bodyguard of Tsar Nicholas. Although this troupe had seen service in the Russo-Japanese war, it was regarded more or less as an ornament.

When the Russians launched their initial drive against the Germans through East Prussia, however, the "council" suddenly made use of the most dazzling and remarkably cavalry charges of the war. Fading apparently into death, it fought itself against a strong German artillery position and by superhuman courage gained its object, capturing five German batteries, although in doing so half of its personnel was wiped out.

Seriously wounded, Wrangler was promoted on the spot for gallantry, and then twice promoted thereafter.

I suppose in a way I lay myself open to such local and ill-understood men, for I am alone in my deck chair in the sea as an evidence of great loneliness or something. They little know how bored I am at times when not basking in Miss Lyons', nor how I yearn in my heart to get up and dance.

Highland fling or waltz something? As we are all suffering from our British training, which tends to suppress every natural impulse. That's the trouble with half the neatest girls after all. They chit-chat and manner absurdities when they would much prefer to be laughing or dancing in their own fashion.

I allow my daughter of mine to follow her own bent in the way of pleasure if I ever have one. How much better men and women would get on with each other if only they would honest about themselves; just be natural and frankly happy, and do and say what their hearts and heads dictate. I was born a little savage; that is, if an absolutely natural and frank person can be considered a savage, and they usually are, but I do wish that I had been allowed to develop along those purely barbaric lines. Never mind, the dog will come later, when I shall be really free!

Prolonging Human Life.

The life of the fruit fly, by means of a reduction in the temperature from 30 to 40 degrees centigrade, was prolonged 300 per cent. Koch figured that if by any means it should be possible to lower the temperature of the human body to 25 degrees centigrade, human life could be extended to 1,000 years. This was, of course, not a prediction, but simply a logical principle derived from these experiments. He quite clearly states that the human organism cannot take on the temperature of the surrounding air, as does the fruit fly; and even if it could, life at that low temperature would be wholly undesirable.—Eugene Lyman Fisk in the Yale Review.

When the teacher expressed her surprise the boy sought to prove his charge by handing her the card the nurse had given him as her record of examination.

"Look at that," he cried.

"Poor you," read the card.

"Poor nutrition," explained the teacher.

Gas Meter Is Accurate.

Put 100 of the best watches against 100 gas meters in a test for accuracy, expose to the same varying conditions of heat, cold, humidity and the meter will win out every time, says a bulletin.

The gas meter is regarded as one of the most accurate measuring instruments in use today. Like the registering turnstile in parks, railroad stations and fair grounds, the meter will not operate unless something passes through it. The mechanism is not set in motion and the indicator hands cannot move except as gas passes through and makes them move. It is interesting to know that the original mechanical principles adopted in 1841 for the correct measurement of gas still persist, and that while hundreds of inventors have endeavored to discover something better, they have improved upon details only.

JEALOUSY IS CAUSE OF CUTTING AFFRAY

Girl Is Knocked Down
By Irate Lover When Rival Comes; Knife Is Then Used In Fight

jealousy, asserting itself when rival put in his appearance at sweetheart's home, police say, is the motive which prompted Herbert Larkins, aged 24, of 1225 Fifteenth street, to stab John Walker, aged 28, a signal service employee and a resident of the Seabrook tract.

The cutting affray took place at 6:30 Monday evening near the home of Joseph Leslie, 1214 Fourteenth street. The knife-user made his escape unscathed.

At Hospital Hospital, where Walker was rushed in an ambulance, it was stated last night by his physicians, Drs. T. G. McCormick and J. W. Fitch, that Walker's condition is not serious and he would recover. He received one wound in the back near the right shoulder, a stab wound. In the right breast, and in the encounter his little finger on his right hand was cut off. The knife blade did not penetrate Walker's lungs and he was unconscious only a short time. However, he suffered greatly from loss of blood and was in a very weakened condition when he reached the hospital. Mrs. Walker was with a camping party on the Seabrook tract last night and did not learn of the sensational affair until this morning.

Girl Knocked Down By Knife User

Miss Leslie Valdin, over whom the trouble occurred, was knocked down by Larkins and was badly injured. It is believed that Larkins kicked the woman as she was lying in the side yard of the Leslie home. Dr. O. R. Middlebrook, who is attending Miss Valdin, stated last night that she was injured about the back and chest, but her condition was not serious. Miss Valdin is a sister-in-law of Joseph Leslie and makes her home there. According to Mr. Leslie, he and his family were eating supper at 6:30 last night when Larkins put in his appearance at the home.

"Tell Leslie I want to see her a minute," Larkins said after entering the home and finding that Miss Valdin was not at the supper table.

"All right, here I am," Miss Larkins said, as she stepped out of the front room. Miss Valdin and Larkins were talking when John Walker put in his appearance at the Leslie home and he too, asked for Miss Valdin. His appearance seemed to rouse Larkins, who evidently believed that Miss Valdin had an appointment with Walker at her brother-in-law's home.

"Did you send for this man?" Larkins asked Miss Valdin.

"No, I did not, and this is the first time he has been around here in three months," Miss Valdin replied. Not believing this story, Larkins struck Miss Valdin in the breast and knocked her down. When she got up he hit her so hard that she fell into the side yard, where Larkins kicked the woman several times before she could get up.

Whip Out Knife
And Begins A Carve"

When Walker attempted to intercede for Miss Valdin, Larkins whipped out his knife and began using it on Walker. The two men struggled in the gangway of the Leslie home for several minutes before Walker attempted to run away. As Walker reached the street, Larkins ran up behind him and stabbed him in the back, the police were told last night. Larkins made several wild swings at Walker's face, but missed, and when a crowd started to collect, Larkins suddenly disappeared.

Officers Were Soon On Scene

A hurried call was sent to the police station and Capt. Stetzenbach and Officers Powers and Page were soon on the scene, but found no trace of the knife-user. The police learned that Larkins before the trouble had left his parked car at J. H. Goodpaster's store at Twelfth and Walker streets. Shortly after the cutting affray, he dashed into the store, grabbed his car and disappeared down Twelfth street. Mr. Goodpaster told the police that Larkins left the car there Monday morning and stated he would call for it later in the day, as he was going to leave the city.

The police were also told last night that Larkins, who was employed in the Portsmouth Safety Coke plant, had armed to face his enemy, trying to run him out of town to his mother, who resides on Fifteenth street. Larkins evidently had reason to believe that Walker would put on his appearance at the Leslie home Monday. He made frequent stops there and asked Miss Valdin to pack
